1. INTRODUCTION

The creation and popularization of family mentality is the key to shaping the family's identity and content in line with the ideology of independence. Thus, it is desirable to have a good understanding of each and every one of them. It is spiritual. With Unito, the only way to achieve this is to get married. It does not matter whether or not the values are worth it. They do not need to be overwhelmed by the fact that they do not. Spirituality and social security will be the result of longevity, and the right to work in the homeland.

In fact, it is the family's spirituality in the child's spiritual tradition. It is a good idea of the well-being of parents in the family, organizational, educational and intercultural personality, the sincerity of the wife, the wife's honor and dignity, the pure spirituality and the conscience. Especially in the parent's circle, their love for each other, the love of their children, the dissatisfaction of the writer, the dignity, the truthfulness of the truth, the soundness of life, cigarette, lying, dormitory, privacy, and social security are the most important features of their family.

The family is the mainstay of traditionalism. In adolescence, it is possible to get a family education. A high level of parenting can be useful for parents, family members, dignity, responsibility, responsibilities, family welfare, family care, family peace, and peace and harmony.

High-festive parenting is a patriotic, patriotic, ethical, knowledgeable, humble, nobleman.

Every parent should have a parenting and guardianship prior to his or her job.

It is important to be careful about the success of the motherfugh family and their parents. It is not permissible for a father to have sexual intercourse with his wife. So, the boy, the girl, will open the door to her family. In the art of creation, you can create an artist's name. Rizouddinibn Fahriddin's Family Review states: "A woman with a good attitude does not want to be in the company of her parents, her husband, his family, his neighbors, his staff and his staff."

Parents should not be too far away from being alone. They do not have to spend time with their parents or children. The main thing is that parents are brave, brave, loyal, responsible, loyal, friendly and helpful.

Abu Rukhân Beruniy, the thinker, writes in parables to the daughters of their families that the peace of the family is more than the responsibility of women: "O my daughter! You leave the house you are studying and fall into a strange apartment. You do not know all the features of your future bridegroom. Become a favor, and it will be heaven. So if you are humble like his predecessor, he will be as honored as the sky. He is pleased with his kindness, just as He is raising the earth with healing rain. Do not just sit in front of you, old and sweet, and do not use it in your old clothes or in your hair. My daughter, do not ask for things that are beyond your groom's power and are unable to buy. If you do this you will lose consensus, and there will be many scandals. My daughter, Avoid being jealous because it is the key to separation. I forbid you to be angry with your husband. Better be kind with him, and it is better than any magic. Make things easy for yourself. Keep it clean. "

The happiness of a girl is her intelligence, eagerness, eagerness, eagerness, kindness, and humor. There is an announcement in our nation that "Mother does not make her daughter a throne, but happiness." This transcript has a deep sense. In ancient times, the maiden entered the grunge from the day she saw her. Because they have the notion that if a girl is spitting on her daughter, she will be honored and be quiet. Parents are more concerned about the future of their daughters and have been relying on the traditional ways of their grandparents to bring them more joy. Girls are often drawn to their home work. From the very early years they are trained. They are taught to ward off the house, to open a door in the morning, sweep the courtyard and the street, to sew garments (washing and placing), buy food from the shops, wash laundry and many other things. This kind of parenting work for girls is to prepare them for the future family life.

In the Republic of Uzbekistan, the relationships between spouses are regulated by law in the Republic of Uzbekistan, which constitutes the Code of Marriage and Family.

It is well-known that marriage is a legitimate, validated and socially-driven relationship between marriage and men and their rights and responsibilities for their children, and the marriage is legally valid. In this context, the mutual consent and maturity of the bride and groom is one of the most important aspects of marriage and mutual consent and grooming should not be put under pressure by third parties in solving problems. Marriages may be subject to criminal prosecutions by third parties, including relatives. The law prohibits the registration of marriage between a healthy and mentally ill or disabled person. It is also impossible not to marry close relatives on the higher and lower generations of descendants, between siblings, adoptive parents and adoptive parents. Through marriage, husbands and wives experience a complex set of interpersonal and property relations. For a human being to have a happy life, there must be some spiritual values - love, loyalty, the ability to share joy and satisfaction with life, and to be able to sail on a sophisticated way of life.

2. CONCLUSION

In summary, the role and influence of the family is undeniable in shaping and upgrading the spirit of every nation. For, the most pure and pure feelings of a human being, the first vital perceptions and ideas are first formed in the family. It is natural that the foundations of sacred concepts such as goodness and nobility, nobility and mercy, honor and reassurance are inherent in the family setting, which determine the nature, nature and outlook of the child. Therefore, deep respect for the parents who arise in the family environment is a deep understanding of the duty of a lifetime debt to them, the basis of the human personality and the family relationship and the spiritual world of the family.
